Remarks:

This brief anthem would make a very attractive introit for general services. The harmonies are attractive and the piece has fine qualities of expressiveness that should be appreciated by the congregation.

The first verses of Psalm 25 provide the text for this 1963 composition written in homophonic style. The dramatic harmonies resolving at a distance from the original key may make for some challenges without accompaniment, which may be used.

One of the really classic motets of the 16th century English Church. It is a deeply moving prayer for God's assistance and protection. The logic of the voice lading will help in the learning process. This anthem could be used as a call to prayer.

Written for Epiphany/Christmas. The optional handbells need 3-4 octaves. Shirley Murray's text is combined with Helen Kemp's original melody in this bright and exuberant anthem. The music dances and sparkles, perfectly complementing the ideas of the text.

This music literally dances with joy. It can be very effective sung in unison and even more so with the optional second part. The accompaniment is an integral part of the song and needs an accompanist with fine technical facility.

This anthem for SSA is a setting of a familiar text from Ps. 84. It is perhaps most well known as a vocal solo often sung in the worship service. It is well arranged. It is perhaps best for adult voices or an advanced children's choir.

Moe, a highly respected living America composer has set the Col. 3:1-4 text in a modern style setting but in a very assessible manner. The voice parts are moderately easy and are very effective. This text would also be appropriate for a baptismal service.

A very effective prayer anthem and appropriate for a baptismal service as a prayer on behalf of those being baptized. The style is that of a plainsong chant. The accompaniment is independent of the voice parts. Very effective as a prayer of commitment.

A festive vigorous anthem in fanfare style. The text is from Ps. 1:4-5. The trumpet parts are for the most part, duplicated in the accompaniment. If trumpets are available, it would add brilliance to the rendition. There is some subdivision in the parts.

An effective anthem in a somewhat syncopated style. Pote is a fine musician and most of his "jazz" setting are in excellent taste as is this one. The text deals with life's journey--inviting the listener to come and join the journey in a celebrative way.

A sensitive setting of a remarkable poem by Christina Rossetti. The melody is plaintive. The melody is traded around from part to part in the second and fourth stanzas. The poem ends on a high feeling of commitment: "yet what can I give him? Give my heart."

This anthem is appropriate for an Easter service. The melody is strong and singable. It has some interesting antiphonal effects, half the choir could sing Part 1 and the other half sing Part 2--the ranges are the same.

Remarks:

This is a marvelously lovely Renaissance English Anthem. The text is a fervent prayer.The anthem would be effective as a prayer response to the pastoral prayer. This anthem would also be an excellent vehiclefor teaching a choir a sense of continuous line.
