May 2023

To WDC Congregations,

Grace and peace to you in the name of Jesus Christ in whom we find our hope, our unity, and our salvation. Together, as Western District Conference we Witness and invite others to faith in Jesus Christ, Dwell in just and loving relationships, and Connect to God's mission in the world.

The WDC Executive Board invites your congregation to be a part of a conference-wide listening experience with the purpose of empowering the vitality of WDC congregations by hearing your stories, offering ongoing relationship, and supporting your witness and mission. Our hope is to discover common themes among conference congregations and to animate hope, joy and shared vision in the months and years ahead.

Our proposal to undertake a listening conversation within churches comes in recognition of transitions experienced across the conference in recent years, as well as transitions we can expect in the months ahead. The WDC leadership recognizes that our conference is different than it was just a few years ago and continues to change. We have experienced a pandemic. Our nation continues to wrestle with issues of justice, privilege, culture, power, environment, race, and more. A number of congregations have experienced pastoral transitions. Some congregations have left the conference while others have joined and others explore membership in the WDC. Congregations have undertaken serious discernment regarding issues of inclusion and welcome with all of the passion and conviction those issues stimulate in our pews and in our hearts.

We want to hear and understand how congregations are tending to these ongoing transitions and transformations as we listen to God's call for our churches and our conference, and how WDC and other congregations within WDC can provide resources for this.

Our listening will use an Appreciative Inquiry approach to the questions we are asking. This approach is designed to highlight and draw on the hopeful and life-giving experiences of the congregation. The questions that will be asked are below. We encourage you to share these questions with your congregation prior to our conversation together:

- Tell about a time when you've felt most alive and vibrant as a congregation, or as a participant of the congregation.
- What is foundational and reassuring about this congregation that has helped in difficult times?
- What activities or ministries are most important for your congregation now in fully carrying out God's work?
- What do you hope for the future for your church and what resources from WDC would be helpful for that?

We invite your congregation to identify possible Sundays between June 2023 - June 2024 when a team of three people representing WDC can join your congregation in-person for conversation sessions of approximately 2 - 2 ½ hours total. Perhaps this could happen during Sunday school or after a meal following worship. Maybe the best time for you is prior to worship. We will do our best to accommodate your circumstances, including considering a day other than Sunday if necessary.

We know that people of all ages have stories to tell about their church experience, so we hope there is good representation across ages. This isn't only for those in positions of congregational leadership. It is for anyone who is able to participate and wants to be a part of this conversation.

The WDC listening team will record notes of the conversations and send back to your congregational leadership a summary which you may use as a resource for further discussion. When all visits of WDC churches are complete, WDC will send a final report to all congregations summarizing common themes and experiences, joys and concerns. We hope this will enable WDC to plan future activities and resourcing to match the contexts and ministries of congregations, make connections between congregations with similar ministries, interests and challenges, and nurture relationships across the conference.

We are ready to begin scheduling for visits from June 2023 through June 2024.

We invite your congregation to consider your participation and respond using one or more of the options below along with additional information.
